Oxford University Press is a department of the University of Oxford. It furthers the University's objective of excellence in research, scholarship and education by publishing worldwide.

The No. 1 ELT publisher in Spain

Nearly half of all students learning English in Spain use an Oxford textbook.

Students deserve the best possible education, so we are delighted that teachers trust our materials and enjoy using them.

We believe that education changes lives for the better and are committed to making a difference in people's lives through education and learning English.

We work closely with teachers, institutions and leaders in education and technology to create the best possible learning and teaching environment.

Our 2015 catalogue features a number of new titles and a wide range of resources for the classroom.

We believe that education changes lives

Through our research, we have worked with over 12,000 teachers across Spain, visiting schools and getting feedback on our materials to ensure we meet teachers' and students' needs.

We would like to share with you a few examples of how we are shaping learning together.

Research

We work closely with teachers to understand how classrooms are changing, how teachers want their classrooms to work, and how we can develop materials that will make a difference.

Digital

We provide teachers, students and parents with online resources they can use wherever they are, and help schools to make optimum use of the digital resources in their classrooms.

Assessment

Using the Oxford Placement Tests at the beginning of the course makes assessing students' language levels easy, while progress tests and exam practice tests motivate students to achieve their language goals.

Professional Development

Spain's teachers are the inspiration for our accessible and practical teacher training. Last year, we worked with teachers in over 500 schools, helping them meet the challenges of today's classroom.

Learning Outcomes

Generations of learners have improved their English and gained qualifications by studying with our materials. Many have become accomplished English teachers themselves, turning to our resources to teach a new generation.

Innovation

By sharing their needs and experiences, teachers help our authors and editors to create the resources that are needed in the classroom – from Pre-Primary through to University level.

Authors

Many of our authors teach or have taught in Spain, and keep in close contact with the classroom through visits to schools and by giving talks at events we organize for teachers throughout the year.

White Papers

Our ground-breaking White Papers cover key issues for teachers and directors, from educational theory and practice, to implementing CLIL and assessment programmes and teacher training.

Digital teaching and learning solutions

Oxford University Press develops a wide range of digital tools and resources that make the best use of information technology and the Internet to help students learn English.

Interactive Whiteboard Materials

iTools and iPack: digital resources for interactive whiteboards or for use with a computer and data projector

Many Oxford University Press textbooks feature material for use with interactive whiteboards or a computer and data projector. 'iTools' and 'iPacks' feature all the pages of the Student's Book, the Workbook, and other classroom resources such as photocopiable material, all of which can be reproduced on screen with automatic correction. Also included are all the audio and video materials associated with the course so the teacher has all the resources in one place.

iTutor and iChecker

The bestselling courses English File and Headway, now in their third and fourth editions respectively, both include digital materials for the students which come free with the coursebooks.

The 'iTutor' contains nearly all the reading and listening texts, and the accompanying audio and video material, with extra interactive practice. There is also further practice of the grammar, vocabulary and pronunciation content of the course.

The 'iChecker' provides the audio files for the listening activities from the Workbook, plus an extensive interactive self-evaluation which allows the student to assess their progress unit by unit.

Oxford Premium

Digital resources for teachers

Oxford Premium is an exclusive online resource bank for all Oxford teachers in Spain. Once registered with Oxford Premium, teachers can access digital versions of all their course components, extra teaching resources and useful teacher documents.

Teachers can browse online and in most cases download digital versions of the following components and materials:

Classroom Resources

- Teacher's Book
- Interactive Whiteboard Resources
- Answer keys
- Course audio and video
- Worksheets associated with the course
- Tests with answer keys

Online learning and practice materials for students

The Oxford Online Skills Program and the new Oxford English for Work modules

Available through our e-commerce site (www.tienda.oupe.es), the Oxford Online Skills Program supports and develops all four language skills, aligned to CEFR levels, encouraging students to explore, practise and reflect on their learning. Oxford English for Work equips adult professional learners with the practical language they need to communicate effectively at work, divided into three key work skills – Telephoning, Socializing and Writing. The step-by-step sequenced activities combined with instant access to support are what make these online programs different. Students improve their language skills independently while the teacher can track their progress, communicate with them outside the class, and improve their learning.

Oxford English Testing

Placement tests, exam practice and exam preparation on the Oxford English Testing platform.

Placement Tests

These tests allow the teacher to check the students' level of English online, saving time with automatic marking, and to instantly view the results: CEFR level, numerical score and more. This information can be used to place students in the right class. Online Placement Tests are available in two versions: for Adults and for Young Learners.

Online practice for Cambridge exams

Available via the access code in the Student's Book for the following courses: Cambridge English: First Result, Cambridge English: First Masterclass, Cambridge English: Advanced Result, and Foundation IELTS Masterclass, this material provides training and exam practice for each part of each paper.

Practice tests available with Oxford exam preparation books

Improve your students' exam technique with our online practice tests using features such as automatic marking, exam tips, access to an online dictionary and instant feedback on answers.

All the practice materials on Oxford English Testing have full LMS capability allowing teachers to track students' work and give feedback if required.

Digital Books

Oxford Learner's Bookshelf interactive e-books

Interactive e-books for personal computers and tablets, with answer checking and cloud storage that allows internal browser access.

Key features, which vary from book to book, include the ability to:

- Access course video and audio, completing activities or taking notes at the same time.
- Slow down audio to hear each word clearly and improve comprehension, then speed up again for authentic listening practice.
- Check progress with automatically marked activities.
- Email homework to the teacher.

Oxford Plus web-books

Fully interactive versions of the printed books with all activity results recorded in an easy to access Gradebook for teachers to track students' progress. Hybrid books that work on-and-offline on all types of computers and tablets with different operating systems.

Show and Tell

Pre-school

Gabby Pritchard and Margaret Whitfield

International English

Creating young thinkers with great futures

Show and Tell gives you the tools to develop children's 21st century skills. It taps into children's natural curiosity, asking a question such as 'Who makes you happy?' or 'What do our senses tell us?' as the focus for each unit. Activities encourage children to explore the question while learning the language they need to think and talk about it.

Key features

- End-of-unit class projects consolidate learning and encourage children to work collaboratively.
- Opportunities to 'Show and Tell' allow children to present their projects in class or at home, and to talk about what they have learned – in English!
- Stories, hand-eye coordination practice and letter formation activities lead to reading and writing simple sentences.
- Problem-solving activities encourage critical and creative thinking.
- Literacy Books and Numeracy Books provide extra skills practice.

Creating young thinkers with great futures

Oxford Discover uses Big Questions like ‘Who are your family and friends?’ or ‘Where can we see colours?’ to tap into children’s natural curiosity and enable them to ask their own questions, find their own answers and explore the world around them.

Key features

- Authentic fiction and non-fiction texts on every topic provide different views on the ‘Big Question’.
- ‘Big Questions’ linked to school subjects form the basis of every unit and video clips provide an introduction to each ‘Big Question’, helping students activate prior knowledge.
- This approach to language learning and literacy, supported by a controlled grammar and skills syllabus, helps children achieve near-native fluency in English.
- Cambridge ESOL-style activities help prepare learners for external exams.

- Workbook

For Teachers

- Teacher's Book with Teacher's Resource Disk
- Audio CDs
- iTools
- Test Bank MultiROM

Key features

- School-leaving exam topics are covered, and exam-like tasks appear throughout to help prepare students for their exam.
- 'Culture' pages in every unit and related DVD material will broaden students' understanding and knowledge of the customs, traditions and history of English-speaking countries.
- A coherent and systematic vocabulary syllabus, 'Vocabulary insight' pages, and a ten-page 'Vocabulary Bank' explore vocabulary in greater depth.
- Thought-provoking topics and information-rich texts challenge students' opinions, educate them about the world they live in, and inspire classroom discussion.

INSIGHT INTO VOCABULARY

insight gives students the opportunity to think about more than the meaning of the new vocabulary. They will develop a deeper awareness of how language works and the confidence to use it.

- Learn about 'rules of vocabulary' such as collocation, word building, register and connotation, and gain a comprehensive understanding of vocabulary.
- 'Vocabulary Insight' pages focus on dictionary and thesaurus skills and explore language further.
- A ten-page 'Vocabulary Bank' presents extra topic-based vocabulary.
- A unit-by-unit wordlist with dictionary-style definitions gives your students more information about core vocabulary.

English File 3rd Edition

CEFR A1–C1

Christina Latham-Koenig and Clive Oxenden

The best way to get your students talking

English File creates fun, enjoyable lessons which get students talking through the right mix of language, motivation and opportunity. English File Third Edition provides a comprehensive package of completely new lessons, and up-to-date texts.

A proven balance of grammar, vocabulary, pronunciation and skills gives students the language they need, and fresh, lively lessons and engaging topics make classes enjoyable, and provide the motivation and opportunity to practise and improve. The publication of Beginner and Advanced levels this year completes the series.

THREE REASONS TO LOVE THE THIRD EDITION

- 1 Gets students talking in every lesson
- 2 Helps students practise independently
- 3 Offers a complete teaching and learning package

Key features

- A fine-tuned syllabus provides confidence for teachers and students.
- Engaging topics and texts bring the classroom to life.
- Video content filmed specially for English File:
 - Practical English drama – teaches high-frequency, everyday English in a motivating, entertaining context at Beginner to Intermediate Plus level.
 - Colloquial English – gives Upper-Intermediate and Advanced students the added challenge of authentic, unscripted language.
 - In-the-Street Interviews – give students at all levels the opportunity to watch and listen to real people using real English.
 - Short documentary films – extend the Student's Book topics and give enjoyable, culture-rich extra listening practice at all levels.
- Digital learning and teaching tools.
- Online and mobile audio and video content.
- Unique Intermediate Plus level, designed specifically for students who have completed an Intermediate B1 course but are not yet ready for Upper-Intermediate B2, helps students to cross the Intermediate threshold with confidence.

'Our aim with this new edition has been to make every lesson better and more teacher-friendly. We kept the bits you loved and found successful, and built on that to bring you a new and refreshed edition with inspiring new topics, stimulating activities, and brand new digital content.'

The best way to get your students talking

English File provides the language, motivation, and opportunities to get your students to talk in every lesson. High priority is given to speaking and pronunciation, with plenty of scope for students to express themselves.

The four-skills syllabus has a clear focus on pronunciation and includes Grammar Bank exercises for practice and activation of grammar.

9B Megacities

1 READING & SPEAKING

a What do you think a 'megacity' is? Read the introduction to the text to check your answer. With a partner, in two minutes, list what you think are probably the biggest problems for people who live in a megacity.

b Read the article once. In which city are the things you discussed in a problem: Tokyo, Mexico City, both, or neither?

c Read the article again. Then, in pairs, using your own words, say why the following are mentioned.

TOKYO
33 million eight million a letter from the train company driving schools 25 square metres the Hikikomori rent a friend the Hashraya

MEXICO CITY
taco stands Mariachi bands two-and-a-half hours social imbalance kidnapping Kevlar

d Find words in the article which mean...

TOKYO

- _____ adj operated by machines not people (paragraph 1)
- _____ adj impossible to imagine (paragraph 1)
- _____ noun the number of people who don't have a job (paragraph 1)
- _____ adj with too many people in it (paragraph 2)
- _____ noun a feeling that you don't belong to a community (paragraph 3)
- _____ noun the feeling of not having any friends (paragraph 3)

MEXICO CITY

- _____ noun the process of making air (and water) dirty (paragraph 2)
- _____ noun the state of being very rich
- _____ noun the state of being poor
- _____ adjective not having a house

e Talk to a partner.

- If you had to go to work or study in either Mexico City or Tokyo, which would you choose, and why?
- What do you think are the main advantages of living in a big city?
- What's the biggest city you've ever been to? Why did you go there? What did you think of it?

Andrew Marr's Megacities
BBC 1 Wednesday 8.00 p.m.
By 2050, 70% of the world will live in cities, and by the end of the century three-quarters of the entire planet will be urban. There are now 31 cities called 'megacities', i.e. they have more than 10 million inhabitants. In Andrew Marr's BBC series Megacities he travelled to five of these cities, including Tokyo and Mexico City.

TOKYO
Tokyo, with a population of 33 million people, is by far the largest city in the world. It's also the most technologically advanced, and the city runs like digital clockwork. The automated subway*, for example, is so efficient that it is able to transport almost eight million commuters every day and on the rare occasions that it goes wrong, nobody believes it. If you are late for work in Tokyo and, as an excuse, you say that your train was late, you need to provide written proof from the train company. The idea of late trains is almost unthinkable. There is very little crime, violence, or vandalism in Tokyo and the streets are safe to walk by day or night. There is also relatively low unemployment compared to other big cities in the world. But such a huge population creates serious problems of space, and as Marr flew over Tokyo in a helicopter he saw football pitches, playgrounds, even driving schools constructed on top of buildings. Streets, parks, and subways are extremely overcrowded. Property prices are so high and space is so short that a family of six people may live in a tiny flat of only 25 square metres. There are other problems too, of alienation and loneliness. The Hikikomori are inhabitants of Tokyo who cannot cope with the 'mechanical coldness and robotic uniformity' of a megacity and have become recluses, rarely or never leaving their homes. There is also a new business that has grown up in Tokyo which allows friendless people to 'rent a friend' to accompany them to a wedding or just to sit and chat to them in a bar after work. Another strange group of people are the Hashraya, Tokyo's street racers who risk their lives driving at ridiculous speeds along the city streets. During the week these men have ordinary jobs and they're model citizens. But on Saturday nights they spend the evening driving through the city as fast as they possibly can. It's a deadly game, but it's just one way of escaping the daily pressures of life in the metropolis.

MEXICO CITY
As a complete contrast to Tokyo, Marr takes us to Mexico City, a colourful and vibrant city of about 20 million people where people live their lives in the street. Marr says that 'in Mexico City, food and friendship go hand in hand'. The city is full of taco stands and cafés where people meet and socialize and Mariachi bands stroll through the boulevards and squares playing songs for money. And on Sundays people of all ages gather to dance in the street. But it's a city with problems of its own, too. It can take two-and-a-half hours for commuters to drive to and from work in the rush hour through choking traffic, fumes, and pollution levels are high. And, looking down from a helicopter, Marr shows us the huge social divide. On one hillside we see massive, luxurious houses and on the next hill, slums. It's a city of great wealth but also extreme poverty, and there are many homeless people. Because of this social imbalance it can be a dangerous city too, with high levels of crime, especially kidnapping. In fact, there are boutiques which sell a rather special line in men's clothes: the shirts, sweaters, and jackets look completely normal but are in fact bulletproof, made of reinforced Kevlar. But despite the crime, the traffic, and the pollution Andrew Marr describes Mexico City as 'a friendly, liveable place' and the most enjoyable megacity of all that he visited.

2 VOCABULARY
word building: prefixes and suffixes

Prefixes and suffixes
A prefix is something that you add to the beginning of a word, usually to change its meaning, e.g. pre = before (pre-war), or a negative prefix like un- or dis- (unhealthy, dishonest). A suffix is something you add to the end of a word, usually to change its grammatical form, e.g. -ment and -ness are typical noun suffixes (enjoyment, happiness). However, some suffixes also add meaning to a word, e.g. -ful = full of (stressful, beautiful).

a Read the information about prefixes and suffixes. What prefix can you add to city meaning big? What suffix can you add to home meaning without? Can you think of any other examples of words with this suffix?

b ▶▶ p.183 Vocabulary Bank Word building.

3 PRONUNCIATION & SPEAKING word stress with prefixes and suffixes

Word stress on words with prefixes and suffixes
We don't put main stress on prefixes and suffixes that are added to nouns and adjectives. However, there is usually secondary stress on prefixes, e.g. un in unemployment.

a Underline the main stressed syllable in these multi-syllable nouns and adjectives.

accommodation antisocial bilingual entertainment government homeless loneliness multicultural neighbourhood overcrowded poverty underdeveloped unemployment vandalism b 16 Listen and check. Practise saying the words.

c Answer the questions below with a partner.

Which city (or region) in your country do you think...?

- is the most multicultural
- offers the best entertainment (for tourists / for locals)
- has a bilingual or trilingual population
- is very overcrowded
- has very serious pollution problems
- has a lot of homeless people
- has some very dangerous neighbourhoods
- has the highest rate of unemployment
- has the worst levels of poverty
- suffers from the worst vandalism and antisocial behaviour

 - 3 What did he learn about himself?

Do something new for 30 days

A few years ago, Matt Cutts, a top manager at Google, thought his life wasn't moving forward. So he started to set himself 30-day challenges. The idea was simple: think of something you want to add to your life – or to give up – and try it every day for 30 days.

He began with small projects like cycling to work, not watching TV and giving up sugar. Then he moved onto harder ones, like writing a novel in 30 days. Matt learned that if you do something for 30 days it can become a habit: if you stop doing something for 30 days, you can break the habit. As he did harder challenges, he got more confident. He learned that if he really really wanted to do something, he could. After doing the challenges for a few months, he had enough confidence to climb Mount Kilimanjaro, the highest mountain in Africa.

Matt gave an online talk about how the challenges changed his life. More than five million people around the world have watched his talk and the 30-day challenge quickly became very popular.

2 Complete the questions and answers. Then ask and answer them with a partner.

1 'Where is Tyler spending the year?'
'In London.'

2 'Is this his first trip abroad?'
'No, it isn't. He was abroad once before.
Last year he went to Mexico.'

3 'Where is Dave going?'
'In north London.'

4 'How long is Tyler staying to stay with Dave?'
'A few days.'

5 'Why is the guy say 'cheers' to Tyler?'
'Because he was him pass.'

6 ' Does he like his host family?'
'Yes, he does. He is they're very nice.'

7 'What is they doing on Sunday?'
'They are Shakespeare's hometown.'

3 11.2 Listen and check your answers.

4 Read Teresa's email. Where is she? Is she working or on holiday? What are some of her likes and dislikes about the place?

5 Form the questions. Ask and answer them with a partner.

1 How long/Teresa/Africa? 5 What/take home?
2 What time/start work? 6 How many/collect already?
3 What/just buy? 7 What/do at the beach?
4 Where/last Sunday? 8 What/sending to her parents?

11.3 Listen and check your answers.

LANGUAGE FOCUS

1 Name the tenses used in exercises 2 and 5. Why are they used?

2 Informal writing often has lots of colloquial language and missing words.
*Still sitting in the airport. - I'm still sitting in the airport.
kind of weird - fairly strange guy = man*

3 Read the tweets and email again.

1 What do 'my buddy', 'I don't get it', 'hanging out together', 'stuff', and 'mega famous' mean in Tyler's tweets?
2 Find colloquial words in Teresa's email and express them less colloquially.
3 Find examples in both texts where words are missing. Which words?
► Grammar Reference p139

1 Home and away!

The tense system • Informal language • Compound words • Casual conversations

TEST YOUR GRAMMAR

1 Which time expressions from the box can be used with the sentences below? Make sure the sentences sound natural.

when I was born never for ages tonight frequently in the 1990s ages ago the other day in a fortnight's time recently during a snowstorm for a year since 1972 later sometimes

1 My parents met in Paris.
2 They travel abroad.
3 They were working in Canada.
4 I was born in Montreal.
5 My grandparents have lived in Ireland.
6 I wrote to my grandmother.
7 My brother's flying to Brazil on business.
8 He's been learning Portuguese.
9 I'll see you.

2 Talk to a partner about yourself and your family using some of the time expressions. My parents met at a party thirty years ago. Tell the class some things about each other.

AWAY FROM HOME
Tense review and informal language

1 11.1 Listen and read 'Tyler's Tweets'. Is the style formal or informal? Where is Tyler from? What does he find strange in London?

TYLER'S TWEETS

Tuesday, September 4, 1:42 p.m.
Still sitting in the airport in NYC. Been waiting three hours but seems like FOREVER!

Tuesday, September 4, 3:20 p.m.
Just boarded the plane for London. My first trip abroad except for a week in Mexico last year. I'm going to stay with my buddy Dave for a few days in north London before I meet my host family. Dave lives in a place called 'Chalk Farm'. I don't get it - a farm in London?

Thursday, September 6, 4:35 p.m.
It's fun here but kind of weird. Dave doesn't live on a farm. His folks have a large apartment in a big old house. They call it a 'flat'. I asked for the 'bathroom' - they thought I wanted a bath. I'm learning fast.

Friday, September 7, 10:30 a.m.
Dave and I are hanging out together today. We're on a bus! Upstairs! OMG! Just drove past Buckingham Palace. But they drive on the WRONG side of the road here. Crazy! Also, people say 'cheers' all the time. Isn't that for making toasts? A guy just said it to me because I'd let him pass.

Saturday, September 8, 7:19 p.m.
First night with my host family, the Wilsons. They seem very nice, but their house is a million-mile walk to the subway! (They call it the 'Tube' here!)

Saturday, September 8, 11:10 p.m.
Big day tomorrow. We're visiting Shakespeare's hometown. He wrote plays and stuff hundreds of years ago. He's mega famous.

Updated topics provide a rich variety of themes.

Useful phrases and expressions for students to use in the real world.

Project work in the Student's Book, additional activities on the Student's Site, and a Key words list of essential vocabulary at the end of every unit provide extra opportunities for revision.

Give students the language and skills they need in work situations

Practical English lessons allow students to experience real-life language situations through carefully staged dialogue practice, giving students the tools they need to communicate effectively in a wide variety of situations.

22 Unit 4
Strength and stiffness 23

4 Strength and stiffness

Kick off

Look at the picture. Answer the questions.

- Which parts of the system need to stretch a bit?
- Which parts of the system need to bend a bit?
- Can you name any forces that act on the system?

Vocabulary
Forces and strain

1 Match the pictures, words, and diagrams.

1 tension

2 shear

3 compression

2 Complete the sentences using the words in 1. When forces are applied to a material, its shape changes. The measure of the change in shape is called strain. Forces on materials can be: _____ - the material is stretched and you can measure the change in the material _____ - the material is compressed and you can measure the change in the material _____ - the forces are not in line with each other.

This material is bending. When the material bends, you can measure the change. The change is called deflection.

3 In the cable car picture on p.22, what examples of tension, compression, shear, and bending can you see?

It's my job

1 Before you read about Joaquin Calvo Hernandez, answer the questions.

- What does a test engineer do?
- What qualities are important for materials for aircraft?
- Why is testing extremely important for aircraft?

2 Read and check your answers.

3 Answer the questions.

- 1 What field is Joaquin's degree in?
- 2 Where did Joaquin do work experience?
- 3 What 'extra service' does Joaquin provide in his office?
- 4 What three materials does Joaquin mention?
- 5 What measurement equipment does Joaquin mention?
- 6 What test is done to see how a component will perform over time?

4 Would you like to do Joaquin's job? Why / why not?

Joaquin Calvo Hernandez

Aircraft fuselages are tested during design and development and samples are taken during construction.

I work for a company that designs and makes test equipment for the aircraft and car industries. We have offices in Barcelona and Madrid. I work in the Madrid office mainly on test equipment for a European aircraft company. I graduated in mechanical engineering and at the same time studied English, taking two technical subjects in English. During my degree course, I spent nine months in the west of England working for a company that makes machine parts. After I graduated, I was hired by my present company and I was assigned to the design and operation of test equipment. Engineers from France and England often visit our offices. We speak English together. Of course I talk with them about my own projects, but sometimes my co-workers ask me to talk about their projects as well. So I work informally as a kind of translator! But I don't mind. Right now, I'm testing aircraft fuselage panels that are made from the latest carbon fibre composite materials. These materials are light, with high strength and stiffness, but they are harder to produce than parts made from aluminium or titanium alloys. However, improvements in their properties and in manufacturing methods are made all the time. Measured loads are applied at certain points to put stress on the component. We use different instruments such as strain gauges, load cells, and pressure transmitters. Sometimes we perform fatigue tests where the load is varied many times to simulate the number of aircraft take-offs and landings. Aircraft components are tested thoroughly because any failure could end in disaster. I feel happy that my job is keeping people safe.

Dolphin Readers

CEFR Pre A1 – A2

Series editor: Craig Wright

Full-colour fiction and non-fiction graded readers for primary. Stimulating integrated activities support and develop students' English language skills.

Dolphins are interactive graded readers specially designed to make developing language skills fun for younger learners.

Full-colour illustrations and cross-curricular content stimulate students' interest and maintain their attention, while carefully graded English introduces them to new language points in an entertaining context.

Integrated activities for every page of story text encourage students to practise newly acquired language skills.

Classic Tales

CEFR A1 – B1

Retold by Sue Arengo

Children love stories. Bring the magic of good storytelling into your classroom with Classic Tales, and they'll love their English lessons too.

This new edition of the award-winning series uses traditional tales to bring English to life through 30 beautifully illustrated stories – now with accompanying:

- e-Books with Audio Packs
- Activity Books and Plays

Project the story and accompanying audio onto the Interactive Whiteboard – a digital 'Big Book'! Or play the audio on a CD player. Students can also watch and listen to the story on their home computer – great for children who prefer computers to books.

Oxford Read and Imagine

NEW

CEFR Pre A1 – B1

Series Consultant: Paul Shipton

A new series that provides great stories to read and enjoy. Students follow Rosie, Ben and Grandpa on their exciting adventures while improving English and developing a love for reading.

Graded at eight levels for students aged 4 and over. Characters grow up as you progress through the levels to match the learners' progression. Activities support Cambridge Young Learners exam preparation. Interactive activities bring stories to life and audio comes in a choice of British or American English for every story.

Oxford Read and Discover

CEFR A1 – B1

Series Editor: Hazel Geatches

20 Quantifiers
All, most, some, a lot of, any, a few, a little

1 Some examples of sentences with these quantifiers:
*I bought some fruit in the market.
 I ate some of the apples and I kept a few of them.
 We worked hard all day.*

2 We can use all, most, some, a lot of and any in these patterns:

+ noun
I bought some new clothes last week.

+ of + the/possessive + noun
You haven't eaten any of your meal.

+ of it/them
We looked for a hotel but most of them were full.

It is not necessary to use 'of' after all with a noun but we must use 'of' before 'it/them':

I got all (of) the questions right. / I got all of them right.

3 We use a few in these patterns:

+ plural noun
I read a few magazines yesterday.

+ of + the/possessive + plural noun
A few of the people in my class do judo.

+ of them
There were a lot of good books in the shop and I bought a few of them.

4 We use a little + uncountable noun:
I've only got a little money left.

5 We use some with positive verbs and any with negative verbs and in questions:
Have you got any milk or sugar? – Well, I've got some sugar but I haven't got any milk.

6 We do not use these patterns:
 the most, etc. + noun: (NOT The most people in my class are friendly.) the most, etc. of + noun: (NOT I like the most of people in my class.) most, etc. of + noun: (NOT I like most of people in my class.)

In all these examples, we say most people or most of the people.

Grammar in action

1 We use all, most, some, a lot of and any to talk or ask about the amount or number of something when we don't give an exact amount or number:
Have you done all (of) the ironing? – No, I've done most of it, but I've got some shirts to do.

2 We use the pattern all day/morning/night/week/year, etc. to talk about whole periods of time:
It rained all night. (NOT all the night)

A Some facts about my job

Underline the correct words in what a young woman says about her job.

0 Most/Most of days I start at 7 a.m. but some/some of the days I don't start until 8 a.m.

1 I write a lot/a lot of reports and I've spent most of/the most of the day writing one.

2 Sometimes it's hard to do all my/all of work.

3 Some/Some of days are very difficult but sometimes I don't have any/any of problems.

4 I spend a lot my/a lot of my time talking on the phone.

5 I get on well with all of/all the people at work and most them/most of them are friends.

6 Sometimes I'm very busy and I don't have any/some lunch.

7 Sometimes I spend all/all the day in meetings.

8 If I don't have any/any of work to do, I can go home early.

9 Sometimes I have so much work to do that I can't do all it/all of it in a day.
